The special postponed meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, set for Sept. 13, has been put over one more week. The new date will be Tuesday night, Sept. 20.

The Chamber is very anxious to have a good attendance at this meeting as matters of particular importance will be discussed. Every one interested in the bus and telephone, service of the district is requested to be present. The meeting will be held in the community room of the library building.

Wendall Thomas, president of the County Consolidated Chambers of Commerce will speak briefly on "The Relationship of the Chamber of Commerce to the Community." Representatives of the Peerless stages and the telephone company will be present and will bring a picture of conditions affecting their companies.

Dan Yeager, secretary, has stated that there will be some kind of refreshments. It may be too late for good watermelons.

KIWANIS GOLF TOURNEY WILL DRAW CROWD

All plans for the 12th division Kiwanis golf tournament to be held Sunday, Sept. 12 at La Rinconada, are complete, according to Carl Field, local grocer and manager of the affair.

Golfers from San Jose, Campbell, Palo Alto, Santa Cruz, Gilroy, Mountain View, Los Gatos, Salinas, and Watsonville are reported to have requested entry blanks, and it is thought that more than 50 players will be on hand to battle for prizes. Trophies include the division cup, now reposing in the San Jose club, team prize, and prizes for low gross and low net scores.

Teams may have from four to six members, said Field, and the entrance fee has been set at $1.50, which includes green fee and "ante" toward the prizes.

Medal play will be the order of the day, 18 holes, 30 stroke handicap limit. Play will start as soon after 8 o'clock as officials can get the situation in hand.

Campbell Lumber Company In Roof Contract Business

Recently instituted as a branch of the business of the Campbell Lumber company, the new roof contracting angle of the game is being met with considerable favor hereabouts, according to Herold Morton proprietor of the yard.

The company is chiefly interested in securing contracts to re-roof leaky dwellings. For this purpose they are using a composition shingle which is proving very satisfactory. A number of these roofs have already been laid in and about Campbell.

BRIEF VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Knappen returned Tuesday from a brief vacation spent with the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Knappen, at Camp Nelson, 35 miles east of Porterville.

Child Protection Object Traffic Safety Moves

Efforts to give children greater security from traffic accidents are in progress this month in two fields of activity—among children themselves and among motorists. The Public Safety department of the California State Automobile association is devoting its September school poster and lesson material to a general review of traffic safety principles for children, particularly the younger ones who are now going to school for the first time. The California Committee on Public Safety, with which the automobile association cooperates, is conducting a statewide campaign this month to impress motorists with the need for careful driving where children are present, particularly in school zones.

The safety instruction material of the association public safety department for September has been distributed to more than 13,000 classrooms in northern and central California. The poster, showing children being dismissed after school, emphasizes a "safety first" theme. The lesson suggestions for use of teachers point out the need for re-impressing children with ideas of safety following their return to school after the long vacation. Principal causes of traffic accidents to children are listed in the lesson material as follows:

Running into the street; crossing in the middle of a block, or at a point other than a recognized pedestrian crosswalk; playing in streets or highways; hitching onto automobiles; riding bicycles or scooters in the street, and roller skating in streets or highways.

Miss Evelyn Voge Reports For Press

The Campbell Press is pleased to announce that Miss Evelyn Voge, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Voge, librarian, has agreed to do reportorial work for the Press, and otherwise aid in the weekly preparation of material for its columns.

Miss Voge graduated this spring from the school of journalism at Wisconsin State university, Madison, where she was associate editor of the university's daily newspaper.

The management of the Press will appreciate all cooperation tendered Miss Voge in her new work.

DISTURBS PEACE; RELEASED WED. ON PROBATION

Pleading guilty yesterday afternoon in justice court to a drunk and disorderly charge, Lester Petrucci was put upon probation by Judge John Blaine. Petrucci agreed to pay any damages rising out of the disturbance he created Sunday. He was taken into custody and lodged in the county jail on that day by Constable Frank Coupland and Deputy Sheriff Harry Evans.

RETURNING HOME

Mrs. Rita Caster, formerly of Campbell, for some time past a patient in the county preventorium, has been discharged from that institution, and was visiting in Campbell today. She will leave shortly for her old home in Novato.

DRIVE FOR MEAL FUND CALLED OFF

The campaign for money with which to aid in feeding needy children at the grammar school cafeteria this winter, mentioned in last Week's Press, will not be immediately necessary, according to Miss Rowena Farman, teacher in charge of the cafeteria.

With the fruit on hand and with money already promised from the Campbell Relief Council and other organizations, the continued function of the free lunch system is an assured thing, according to the word from Miss Farman. Later in the year, if anything happens to obstruct the flow of promised finances, it may become necessary to again take up the personal solicitation campaign. Right now, however, a money drive is conceded by school officials and the P. T. A. to be unnecessary. The project really belongs to the P. T. A., and they have pledged themselves to see that there is no hitch in the distribution of free lunches for those children who need them.

There are, however, a number of things other than money which the administration could use in the free lunch program. According to Miss Farman, there are sufficient jars left on hand to take care of quite a few tomatoes. Tomatoes are fine winter food, and the ladies of the P. T. A. have expressed their willingness to pack any tomatoes which are offered.

Too, there are many occasions when walnuts or almonds could be worked into the menu, and as they are very nutritious, any quantity of them would be welcome. Anyone who wishes to contribute one or more of these items should get in touch with Miss Farman, Campbell 211.

Miss Farman and the members of the P. T. A. have expressed a desire to thank, through the columns of the Press, the people of Campbell who have so generously rallied to their support in this good work.

WILCOX, MARKET EXPERT, HEADS PRUNE INDUSTRY

At a meeting of the directors of the United Growers and Prune Pool in San Francisco today F. R. Wilcox, noted economist and marketing expert of the University of California, and one of the men who pointed the way to the prune industry's salvation, was named manager of the California Prune Pool.

Headquarters of the Pool and of the United Growers will be located in San Francisco, while division offices will be established in San Jose, Santa Rosa and Marysville. San Jose was under consideration as a strategic point for headquarters, but lost out to San Francisco by an 8 to 7 vote of the directors.

While the work of organization goes ahead tomorrow, Imperial prices have been announced by the United as follows:

31 to 33: 5 cents plus 1-2 cent.
26 to 30: 7 cents plus 1-2 cent.
21 to 25: 8 1-2 cents plus 1 cent.
20 and up: 9 1-2 cents plus 1-2 cent.

These prices are for Santa Claras. Outside, one cent less on all sizes.

Wilcox, marketing specialist of the California extension service and an associate of the Giannini agricultural foundation, was selected unanimously for the post of manager. Previous announcement was held back pending decision on the part of Wilcox, and to give the university time to consider his application for leave of absence. He will serve until March 1, when, if he has the organization safely on its way, he will return to the university.

During the 1930-31 season Mr. Wilcox served the National Pecan Marketing association as general manager. He achieved great success, and it was with reluctance that officials of the organization saw him return to his university duties at the expiration of his leave of absence.

In order that growers may have a full understanding of the French prune prices set earlier in the week, they desired to make plain that French prune prices, like Imperial quotations today, were given on a net basis receivable by the grower.

FIRST MEETING OF COUNTRY WOMAN'S CLUB POSTPONED

According to Mrs. H. C. Smith, president of the Country Woman's club, the first meeting of that organization will be held on Monday afternoon, Sept. 19, instead of Sept. 26 as it appears in the published program. By following the program, two meetings would come on two successive weeks; hence the change. Other dates appearing in the program are correct.

The program for this meeting will include roll call and "vacation reminiscences." The committee in charge of the afternoon is composed of Mrs. M. A. Ross, chairman; Mrs. Emily P. Gard and Mrs. J. B. Strong. A full attendance is urged by the club's officers.

Youthful Strength

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, the world-known authority on Sexology and Director of the Institute for Sexual Science of Berlin, Germany, created to help the millions of men and women who have lost or are losing their vital physical power. In his 35 years of practice and research, however, he realized that the weakening of man's glands was also responsible for other troubles: High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, physical exhaustion after work or exercise, dizziness, depression, neurasthenia, etc.

All these troubles can be removed with Titus-Pearls. Numerous cases were treated by Dr. Hirschfeld in his Berlin Institute.

L. S. (State Official; 60 years old, married) complained of physical exhaustion, dizziness and tremors. Was easily tired. Mental powers dull and slow moving. Physical powers had been incomplete for previous 5 years. Blood pressure too high. Given 2 Titus-Pearls 3 times a day. 2 weeks later the medical report on this man was:—General health better, more vigor; dizziness much less and returning of power. Treatment continued and 2 weeks later L. S. reported again, this time to say that all weariness and exhaustion had gone; he felt fresh and buoyant. His blood pressure had fallen, and at 60 years of age he had regained the physical power and virility that he had known in the prime of his life.

Start regaining your youthfulness now! To-day! In 2 weeks time you will be aware of the new, virile force within you. Send $5.00 (cash registered or money-order) for 2 weeks treatment. C. O. D. Orders accepted. Write for booklet.

TO LOOK OVER HUSKYS

Bernard Robson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Robson, returned today from Ranier national park where he had been employed as a forest ranger. Before he returns to Stanford medical school this fall he will be busy assisting in the physical examination of the Stanford football squad, the members of which are already on the campus.

The old fashioned demagogic politician who used to rail at the railroads until he about destroyed that institution is now getting ready to start in on the telephone and power companies. In time he hopes to make a complete wreck of things.

THE SENATORIAL A B C'S

The most significant, if not the most interesting primary election in years is now over, and we have a chance to look around, survey the triumphs and debris, and study the meaning of the results. In that way, some estimate of the November elections can be made and, if we are foolhardy enough, a few predictions.

In the first place, California is still by a large majority Republican, but the Democrats have made great gains. For the first time since Wilson, the Democrats are united behind one man—McAdoo, and are thus doubly dangerous. McAdoo literally swamped his opposition and made himself the leading Democrat in California. That much is certain. Also, he has a tremendous following, especially in southern California, where, because of the population, the final decision will be made. The Republican party must not fool itself; it has a dangerous opponent to combat, an opponent indeed, who is a national figure, a militant speaker and a first rate campaigner. There is a major flaw in his candidacy, but that will be mentioned later. We might as well look at all the dark side of the picture at once.

In the Republican party, no such unanimity was evidenced. All four of the leading candidates were very closely bunched. Tallant Tubbs won by but 12,000 votes over Senator Shortridge and Shortridge was but a few thousand ahead of Shuler and Crail. What does that signify? Either that there are four very good men in the party or that the party is internally split. But Tubbs is nominated and if McAdoo is to be defeated, Tubbs must be supported by the Republicans of the state. It is admitted that Tubbs won first, because he so overwhelmingly carried San Francisco and second, because Shuler (the real surprise of the election) and Crail took enough dry votes from Shortridge to leave the wet minority in control. If you add the figures of Shuler, Crail and Shortridge, you will see that they had a clear majority of over 370,000 over Tubbs. Now this majority is almost entirely a dry vote, and a vote of protest. Shuler alone, on the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition tickets received more votes than any other candidate running for any office in the primary.

What is the dry Republican voter to do? If he votes for McAdoo he is insuring a Democratic senator to represent him, a dry Democratic senator, what is more, who is running on a dripping wet party ticket. If he votes for Shuler, he is either repudiating an organized party or electing McAdoo. If he votes for Tubbs, he is voting for a frank and outspoken wet, but a wet running on a drier ticket than the drier Democratic candidate. To be frank, a dry Republican is between the devil and the deep blue sea. Except for the prohibition question, Tallant Tubbs has the qualifications that command the respect of his party. He is young, courageous, fair and he has shown little tendency to attack the administration. At this distance, which is of course still far away and liable to change, the best thing seems to be to jump in the deep blue sea and support Tubbs. If that isn't done, the Republican slate in California is in for a first rate shellacking.

Robert Shuler was the dark horse candidate of the primaries and will be the same unknown quantity in the general election. He is a church man, an amateur in politics and a bone dry. He has, we reiterate, no experience in politics; he represents only the southern part of the state; he isn't of senatorial timber, he has no party of weight or importance behind him and he has no complete and well thought-out platform—nor would he be of any value in a Republican and Democratic organization.

In the coming election he will be the catchall. He will get the votes of the dissatisfied. He will get the deflected dry Republican vote if that vote isn't courageous enough to look at other issues besides prohibition. He will get the Democratic dry vote, that does not trust the personal dryness of McAdoo. He will poll a large vote and he might even win. But if there is one thing worse than electing McAdoo, a Democrat, it is electing Rev. Robert P. (Bob) Shuler.

We mentioned above that there was a large flaw in McAdoo's candidacy. There is, and one that even the most dextrous politician in America would find it hard to straddle. In the first place, McAdoo, who led the fight for Garner against Roosevelt in the pre-convention campaign later changed sides and practically alone handed Roosevelt the nomination. So, in the primaries, he ran against the man (Justus Wardell) who he had defeated to give California's votes to Garner. Wardell had fought for Roosevelt in California and lost. So the man who practically nominated Roosevelt fought out the primary with the man who had tried to nominate Roosevelt in the first place. But let that drop. Next, McAdoo has long been a militant, a vociferous dry. He fought and battled and struggled for the passage and enforcement of the 18th Amendment. He was one of America's outstanding dries. Fine. But then, because of his strategic work in the Democratic convention, he found himself again in a position of power in his party's ranks. But in order to get his reward (party backing in a fight for senator from California) he had to endorse his party's platform. Which he did. But alas that platform was wet, very wet indeed. Which is more important, a man's belief, or a man's ambition? If you can't keep both, which should be discarded? McAdoo chose, and he is the Democratic nominee for the senate.

But there is more to it than that. McAdoo being formerly dry, the real wet votes will go to Tubbs. Being on a very wet platform, the real dries will go to Shuler. Being neither, he gets neither vote. Hedging might fool a few of the people, but not many. All he can be sure of are the die-hard Democrats who would vote for Satan himself if he was in the form of a donkey.

So, coming to the promised predictions, it looks very much as though the balance in the senatorial battle lies in the hands of the dry Republicans. It is entirely up to them to decide which candidate will be elected. With Shortridge out of it, the only candidate that will aid the administration is Tubbs. There is bound to be some change in the prohibition law anyway, and it would be far better to have it come from the safe, re-submission Republican party than it would from the repeal Democrats.

That is the story as it stands now. A great deal can happen between now and November, but whatever happens it will be that large dry Republican vote that will carry the election. We hold the balance of power. Let's look carefully, think well and decide judiciously. We have the decision, and the obligations that go with it.

THEN WE HAD IT; NOW WE DON'T

When the electric railway company made application to abandon its Campbell-Los Gatos line some months ago no one was particularly anxious to hold them to their charter. The cars were noisy, unsightly, and constituted a certain hazard. And the bus company agreed to run busses enough so that the old reliable red-later green—cars would not be missed.

To start with, the bus company had their conveyances running in and out of Campbell so frequently that one had but to step to the curb and be assured of transportation within a few minutes. Everyone was pleased. Several routes were used, so that patrons of the old electric line would not be inconvenienced by the lack of adequate transportation. This satisfactory condition did not last for long, however.

At the present time there are 21 busses through Campbell each way between the hours of 6 a. m. and 10:30 p. m., with a final bus out of San Jose at 11:15. That is still fairly adequate transportation for the town itself, but the busses, thought the company's desire to serve their own territory and that formerly served by the electric line, are routed so many different ways that it has left much of the territory without the facilities enjoyed when the Peninsula line was also in operation.

Particularly is this true of Hamilton and Johnson avenues, Winchester road, and the San Jose-Los Gatos highway. On these thoroughfares dwell many people who want to come to Campbell for one purpose or another, and the present service is not frequent enough for their convenience. On Hamilton avenue there is no bus out of San Jose after 5:15 p. m., and that is a distinct handicap to people who used to be able to ride street cars at frequent intervals almost to their front doors.

The situation is one which demands a remedy. Anything which makes it inconvenient for people to live in or near Campbell is a thing which will have to be killed or cured. In this instance a cure is indicated, and it is up to the people of Campbell to put it over. Come to the Chamber of Commerce meeting September 20 and express your ideas on the subject.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

California taxpayers, especially rural taxpayers, are suffering not only from too much government, but from too many governments.

Government has too many ramifications, too many agencies and departments—and too many governments within governments.

Such, briefly summarized, are the conclusions of the California Taxpayers' association, one of the many groups participating in the present state-wide agitation for tax relief.

The association finds, further, that to achieve substantial and lasting reductions in the tax burden there must be basic and drastic changes in the whole structure of government—amputations, rather than merely salary cuts and budget slashes.

Sounding a new note in the economy battle, the Taxpayers' association lists, as one of its remedies, the elimination of many of California's smaller counties through consolidations and mergers with other counties.

"Careful thought and consideration should be given to the possibility of reducing the number of counties in the state, declares the association. "Our 58 counties were originally 27. There are many counties in the state with an extremely small population and small assessed valuation. They have been handicapped and limited to small scale services and taxed to death. With present day means of transportation, there is no good reason why many of our counties could not well be consolidated with improvement in services and large savings in expenditures."

Admitting that such a move would stir up a storm of protest among local politicians and that "local pride" would mitigate against it, the Taxpayers' association declares, nonetheless, that fundamental changes are absolutely necessary if the tax burden is to be reduced.

"Expenditures for state functions of government are dwarfed by the colossal burdens of local government," reports the association. "The problem of tax relief then, lies in the taxpayers' own back yard. The taxpayers, themselves, must force the reorganization and consolidation in government, and the abandonment of every unnecessary service."

Other recommendations of the Taxpayers' association, some of which, at least, should commend themselves to California farmers in their search for tax relief, include:

1. Legal action to prohibit the appointment of relatives by officers to be their deputies and assistants.
2. Centralization of purchasing under a purchasing agent in all counties; 22 of the 58 counties now follow this practice.
3. A county unit system of road administration under the supervision of a properly trained road engineer, subject to control of the whole board of supervisors.
4. Elimination of unnecessary township courts and constables.
5. Elimination of the system of paying certain officers and officials on a fee basis.
6. Development by the state of uniform standards of service and cost for use in the preparation of local budgets.

The "Clean-up Your Own Backyard" tax campaign is important for many reasons. California citizens have been paying for luxuries in government when they could barely afford necessities—and, in many instances, the luxuries were

BOOKS

Young Mrs. Meigs, by Elizabeth Corbett.

"Young Mrs. Meigs loved bridge parties, street car rides, hot buttered toast and coffee. In the third chapter of this delightful book young Mrs. Meigs celebrated her 80th birthday. The charming young old lady never ceased to mourn because on her husband's death she was compelled to leave her large home with its beloved attic and cellar, for a four-room apartment. But when her children wanted her to leave the apartment to make her home with one of them, she realized how dear was freedom in a four-room flat. Finally she promised to surrender if her granddaughter made the inappropriate marriage which grandmother was secretly determined to prevent. Young Mrs. Meigs wakes in the morning to tell herself that things are as wrong as they can well be, but bravely adds in words which can surely serve as a motto for us all, "Everything will come out all right in the end, for I will make things come out right."

How Mrs. Meigs pulls the strings to preserve her independence, and to bring happiness to her children and grandchildren, is an absorbing story, delightfully written. It will enthrall grandmothers, mothers and daughters. Grandmothers will be interested in the delineation of their peculiar problems, daughters may garner hints about the way to make mother happy, granddaughters will see themselves reflected in the charming 19-year-old Caroline. —Mrs. Lillian Vove

KIWANIS NOTES By Heck

Judge Urban Sontheimer of San Jose was the luncheon speaker at the Kiwanis meeting Tuesday. He took as his subject, "National Political Aspects of California's Admission to the Union."

Beginning with the early history leading up to this unique event, Judge Sontheimer gave a concise and interesting resume of political movements which made this particular admission a potent factor in the struggle against slavery. Mr. Sontheimer presented his picture in such a clear and understandable way that it proved very educational.

H. C. Smith acted as chairman. S. N. Hedegard spoke for a few minutes on the successful outcome of the prune pool drive, this community being the highest percentage in sign-up. This was due to the untiring efforts of a number of our growers and business men.

The forum contest is scheduled for next Tuesday, the contestants being Rev. C. E. Irons, T. A. Cutting and D. H. Cramer.

demanding by the taxpayers themselves, during the days of easy money.

Nor can it be denied that the "big leak" is in county and city expenditures. Local governments in California spent about $575,000,000 last year. The state, excluding its subsidies to the counties, spent about $86,000,000.

State government, however, should lead the way by the speedy elimination of all non-essentials, and by legislation which will permit local taxpayers to amputate local extravagancies.

BROTHER LOVE AND JUSTICE COMPARED

By Rev. J. H. Bennett

This is a subject more often associated with hypocrisy than with truth. It is handed out as we hand out wedding cake, in small quantities. To be even brotherly is hard enough, but to add love is almost impossible.

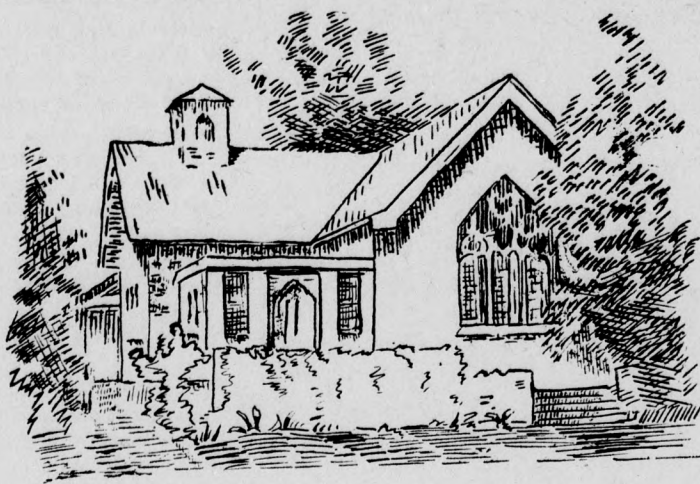

Brotherly love is very complicated. Even when it is supposed to be extended to those who are in our church or fraternal order we find it difficult. But think of the millions of negroes that inhabit our land; or those Russian communists who are struggling for a measure of freedom out of a darkness unknown to us; or the Japanese enclosed within a mountainous country with a teeming population. That is different. Do not imagine that the writer has any sentimental ideas as to the realities that lie behind these problems. All I assert is that it is a very complicated problem. Too often we merely use words as words. The moral values and ethical implications we do not bother about. They sound good and seem to be suggestive of respectability. We do love these whom we love and will strive to assist them at all times, but also it is true to say that we will strive against and even seek to hurt those whom, because we do not know them, we do not even give them justice, let alone love. We cannot love everybody, but we can, as honest men and women, endeavor to be just to all. Justice is the foundation of all the real virtues that govern human attitudes. The lily work at the top of the building of Brotherhood is love.

My Lord taught the world all the truth we ever can know on this subject, and the first principle for our guidance is that:

"It is our duty to believe in man." Not theological belief, but belief in the real goodness of the human heart. Jesus Christ is the seal of God's belief in us. When we profess to be followers of Christ we should also reveal that trust in our fellow man that Christ showed to all men in his earthly life. Of course, all things do not turn out well. Why should we expect them to do so? We know that evil lives in human hearts, but we also know that more goodness is there than evil. They slew my Master but that did not prevent Him loving. He achieved His moral victory over evil because his heart was loving and just. No victory will ever be achieved in the international nor in the social nor in the individual spheres of life until men learn to believe in their fellow man.

After belief comes cooperation. Belief is first. We cannot work with another unless we trust him. Cooperation is the explanation of all life. Nothing lives unto itself. I cannot go into this here, but speaking as an individual I am aware that my personality is a sovereignty of being not to be intruded upon nor coerced by anything outside. As in the orchestra it is only the blending of the full and unrestricted parts of the individual instrumentalists that gives to the orchestra the perfection of harmony. The quality of any construction lies not only in the plans that underlie the work but more so in the quality of the work of each individual.

What could God not do with this world if we would only trust each other and then work together with our best powers toward ends of goodness?

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly."
—Psalms

PASTOR BOHRMAN URGES COURAGE

By Ada C. Bohrman

Courage—what a world of meaning in that word! And how we need courage today! Courage to hang on in spite of difficulties and perplexities, courage to face every problem great or small. God's word tells us so many times, "Be strong and of a good courage." In fact, the children of Israel are commanded by the Lord to have courage. "Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed, for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest." Josh. 1:9. What more can we ask? If God be for us, who can be against us?

There is another word in Deut. 33:27: "The eternal God is thy refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms."

I read an account of a mother eagle teaching her eaglets to fly. There was one timid baby who could not be persuaded to leave the nest. The mother hovered over the hungry little fellow with food in her talons, trying to tell him in her own way to come and he should have it. He called loudly and spread his wings a dozen times to follow, but the plunge was too awful. Suddenly there was a sharp cry from behind, and the next instant the mother eagle had swooped, striking the nest at his feet, sending his support of twigs and himself with them out into the air together.

He was afloat now in spite of himself, and flapping lustily for life. Over him, under him, beside him hovered the mother, calling softly that she was there. Awful fear was upon the little one, and suddenly he lost his balance and dipped head downward in the air. Another moment and he would have been dashed to pieces. But like a flash the mother bird shot under him. His despairing feet touched her broad back between her wings. He righted himself, rested an instant, found his head; then she shot from under him, leaving him to come down on his own wings.

Just so the Lord watches over His children. It seems so hard at times to step out in faith, believing God is able to help, but remember, "underneath are the everlasting arms."

NEW DIRECTOR OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Succeeding to the office from which Edward A. Merritt, C. S. B., recently resigned after 15 years' service, William P. McKenzie, C. S. B., of Cambridge, Mass., took up his duties today as one of the five directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, Mass., an organization whose influence now extends throughout the civilized world by virtue of its extensive publications and its maintenance of over 2600 branch churches and societies.

Mr. McKenzie, the son of a Scotch clergyman, was educated at Upper Canada college, Toronto university, Knox college, Toronto, and Auburn theological seminary. After a brief pastorate, he taught English literature and rhetoric at Rochester (N. Y.) university, during which time he became interested in Christian Science. Since then he has held many important posi-

Evangelist Sees Conflict Over Commandments

Last Sunday night at the Community hall Evangelist J. Lee Neil told a large audience that the issue in the last conflict between good and evil will be over the commandments of God. The most fearful warning in all the book of God is against worship of the "Beast," his "image" and his "mark." Mr. Neil has thought to have given conclusive evidence from Rev. 13 that the first beast power is that union of church and state in old Europe that persecuted and ruled supreme for 1260 years of the "dark ages."

"The 'image,' according to the evangelist, is a like union of the Protestant churches of America with the state to enforce a Sunday law. Such a law for the District of Columbia (a sample for the nation) almost passed congress in 1931.

The "mark" specified in the prophecy can be nothing else than the Sunday law soon to be enacted, according to Mr. Neil. It is first a "mark" of apostasy, hence the warning against it. Rev. 14:9. Almost everyone will be deceived by it. Rev. 12:9 and 13:14. It is of Romanish origin or institution, for it is the "mark of the beast." That it is an outward observance is evident because it is made the basis of a boycott, later a death decree. Rev. 13:15-17. It is something upon which Catholics and Protestants agree, for these powers unite to enforce the "mark." It is enforced by law. "Causeth all . . . to receive a mark." In other words commandeth all to receive a mark. Rev. 13:16. In contrast to those who worship the "Beast" are those who keep the commandments of God. Rev. 14:12. Therefore this "mark" is set over against the ten commandments. Mr. Neil sought to show that the Sunday law qualifies on every one of these points.

The subject tonight is "The Ten Commandments and the Cross of Christ."

Next Sunday night, Sept. 11, Mr. Neil, with his assistants and hearers, will unite with the youth of Campbell at the Congregational church to hear "Prohibition, Yes or No?" (Note the change.)

Wednesday night Sept. 14 at the Community hall, Mr. Neil will present the subject, "Armageddon, Earth's Last War."

tions with the Christian Science organization.

In 1894 Mr. McKenzie became a "First Member" of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston; and in 1896, upon the invitation of Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science, he came to Boston to become a member of the committee which prepares the Bible lessons for Christian Science services. In 1898, by Mrs. Eddy's appointment, he became one of the original trustees of The Christian Science Publishing society, serving until July, 1917, when he was appointed editor of the Christian Science religious periodicals, in which position he served until March, 1920. Mr. McKenzie was again appointed a trustee of The Christian Science Publishing society in January, 1922, and he now retires from that position to take up his new duties as a Director of The Mother Church.

Motorcycle Races At San Jose

San Jose, Sept. 8—These dare-devils who ride motorcycles in races like their thrills to come fast and furiously. For instance, three of them who have been tooling racing cars in the San Francisco bay area for the past couple of months have forsaken their four-wheeled mounts for the snorters of the "bike" variety that are to cavort on the San Jose Speedway Sunday afternoon, it was announced today by Linn Mathewson, manager of the track.

This trio includes Al Chasteen of San Jose, and Les Driesbach and Tom Forsyth of Berkeley. Chasteen, Driesbach and Forsyth are favorites with the cycle racing followers and predictions are they'll make things pretty hot for other competitors.

"It's like this," explained Driesbach. "In a racing car you're higher from the ground than you are on a motorcycle. If you start turning a track at 90 miles an hour or better in an automobile you know you're going places but when you get on a "bike" at that speed—boy, you're almost flying."

Now that Nicholas Murray Butler and Henry Ford have both approved Hoover's statement on the liquor question, that ought to just about take the issue out of Republican politics.

Although there are increasing signs that something may be done about the Volstead act up to this time there has been no boom in the brass rail industry.

Spain is going to borrow $40,000,000 to build a lot of new schools. Evidently some other countries are trying to get rid of the depression, too.

England Perhaps On Decline, Says Professor at U.C.

BERKELEY, Sept. 8.—In spite of the fact that England's birth rate exceeds the death rate, there is evidence which indicates that its population, and the populations of other countries in the same condition, are perhaps not increasing at all, but are really decreasing.

This disconcerting fact is pointed out by Professor S. J. Holmes of the University of California department of zoology in an article appearing in the American Genetic Association's Journal of Heredity.

Although the number of births has exceeded deaths in England by more than 100,000 a year recently, Professor Holmes explains, a number of competent statisticians have insisted that mere preponderance of births over deaths in any series of years is no indication that the population is increasing or even holding its own.

Professor Holmes cites arguments to the effect that in countries in which the birth rate has been falling, the number of children is small in comparison to the number of adults, including the number of women of child bearing age. In other words there are an abnormal number of women of child bearing age, with no younger generation of sufficient strength following, so that there is a temporary period of high birth rate followed by a slump.

The real criterion of population maintenance is the number of girls produced in each generation. If 1000 women do not produce 1000 women to replace themselves, then the population cannot maintain itself, even though the number of births for any year may exceed the number of deaths. In the United States it has been computed that the population increase is really only about one-half what the excess of births over deaths would indicate because the proportion of child bearing women is not now normal.

Professor Holmes concludes: "If the population of England is not adequately reproducing itself at the present time this means that all stocks whose birth rate is not considerable above the average are now disappearing. From what is known of fertility in relation to occupation and social status we may count among the disappearing stocks the professional classes, the more successful business men, the skilled artisans and the bulk of the more educated and thrifty classes."
